"Public enterprises fail in their responsibilities"

Many public enterprises have no proper Corporate Plans or Action Plans which makes them poorly managed. Many of them fail to achieve their objectives and fail to adequately address the needs of the society at large. The report concludes that the Sri Lanka Transport Board, Sri Lanka Petroleum Corporation, and the National Water Board have been poorly managed and fail to effectively serve the public.

The report by TISL reveals that the public enterprises failed to manage their affairs properly. The report notes that the Sri Lanka Transport Board (SLTB) has failed to manage its affairs properly, and there is no indication of any improvement in the performance of the board. The report also notes that the Sri Lanka Petroleum Corporation (SLPC) has failed to manage its affairs properly, and there is no indication of any improvement in the performance of the corporation. The report notes that the National Water Board (NWB) has failed to manage its affairs properly, and there is no indication of any improvement in the performance of the board.

The report also notes that the public enterprises are poorly managed and fail to adequately address the needs of the society at large. The report suggests that there is a need for the government to take action to improve the management of these public enterprises.

Research report reveals Rampant corruption in Education Sector

A research report reveals that corruption in the education sector is rampant. The report notes that corruption is widespread in the education sector and that it has a significant impact on the quality of education. The report notes that corruption is especially prevalent in the recruitment of teachers and in the allocation of resources. The report suggests that there is a need for the government to take action to address this issue.

Citizens Charter for a better service to the public

Thirty-five per cent of citizens have complained that the government service is not adequate. The report notes that 66% of citizens have complained that the government service is not adequate. The report notes that there is a need for the government to take action to improve the quality of government service.

Petty corruption rampant in hospitals

A survey by the Transparency and Integrity Society of Sri Lanka (TISL) reveals that 68% of respondents said that they have been victims of petty corruption in hospitals. The survey notes that petty corruption in hospitals is a significant problem and that it has a negative impact on the quality of healthcare.

Hidden agenda in Section 487 in Companies Act?

The Companies Act of 1956 in Sri Lanka was enacted to regulate the issue of shares and other related matters. The Act contains a provision, Section 487, which prohibits the issue of shares without the consent of the company’s shareholders. However, this provision has been used to stifle opposition and to silence dissent.

Good response for Assignment Competition

The assignment competition organized by TISL for students of universities and other educational institutions has had a good response. Many students have submitted their assignments and are eagerly awaiting the results.

Sri Lanka drops to 97th place in Corruption Perceptions Index

Sri Lanka’s position in the annual Corruption Perceptions Index (CPI) has worsened in 2009. According to the CPI, Sri Lanka is ranked 97th out of 180 countries, indicating a decline in the country’s anti-corruption efforts.

Social activist here for NIA presentation

Indian social activist, Ramkarpal Singh Arunachalam, who won the Nandini National Integrity Award for Activism in 2009, will be addressing the National Integrity Award (NIA) presentation in Colombo on 9th December at the BMICH.